Additionally, think solar! Kinect Energy offers high-level University site assessments for solar PV and other renewables. Kinect oversees the on-site solar development process for the client offering initial site qualification and solar layout and design, as well as development oversight through system commercial operation.

Benefits of the Kinect Energy University Program

A customized energy plan for each university is developed based on their energy needs. The plan reviews current and historical energy usage, facility requirements, current energy contracts and sustainability objectives.

Recommendations are made after collecting and analyzing data. Benefits include:

- Mitigation of price volatility through the development and management of a comprehensive risk plan
- Procurement of natural gas and electric supply from a competitive base of qualified vendors, thereby reducing energy spend
- Reliable and accurate data management saves time and money
- Strategic short and long term planning produces supply and price predictability
